MADONNAS OF THE MUNDANE Divas of the domestic

'OUR LADY OF THE ROSE ARBOUR' by BEV AISBETT Acrylic and Collage on Canvas

If you feel you need some Divine Intervention to lift your spirits, check out a selection of Bev Aisbett's

'DOMESTIC MADONNAS'

at the JASPER HOTEL 489 Elizabeth St, Melbourne from 29th March 2010

Calling on her background as an established cartoonist and illustrator, Bev uses humour along with a bold graphic approach to celebrate the unsung Goddesses of the Kitchen Sink in this show which is sure to supply some much-needed levity in these dark days

Utilising a combination of acrylics and collage, Bev employs touches of quirkiness to illustrate the meditative moments to be found in daily rituals of the marvellously mundane

Bev Aisbett is best known for her highly regarded illustrated self help books for sufferers of anxiety and depression, which also employ cartoons and humour as a means of demystifying and disarming these challenging topics.

Exhibition commences 24th March running throughout the Comedy Festival
